Malibu Creek State Park to Celebrate National NeighborWoods Month

Sponsored by The Home Depot Foundation

Calabasas, Calif. – October 1, 2006. Mountains Restoration Trust today announced that it will plant/maintain 26 trees as part of their Commemorative Oaks Planting. These events are two of more than 100 greening efforts throughout the country being promoted during October, which has been declared National NeighborWoods Month by the national nonprofit, the Alliance for Community Trees (ACT). Mountains Restoration Trust is a member of ACT's NeighborWoods Network.

At the events, 40 sixth grade students from A.J. Heschel Day School, Northridge, will prepare two new planting sites. Preparation involves searching for matured valley oak acorns, preparing wire cages to protect roots, planting, and mulching. Many of the Heschel students will return during the school year to do follow-up care. In doing so, the site will be dedicated as the Heschel School Oak Grove. Woodland Hills' El Camino High School students will also meet their community service requirements by coming to the monthly Oak Care Days.

"It's great to be working on an important greening effort at a time when other organizations are doing so as well," said Jo Kitz. "Part of our goal is to draw attention to the good work being done at the grassroots level all across the country to improve urban and community forests." Commemorative Oaks is a volunteer oak restoration program in Malibu Creek State Park that is in its 13th year.

Mountains Restoration Trust's celebration will take place as follows:

Oct 21, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Oct 24, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Malibu Creek State Park parking lot.

"Having local organizations like Mountains Restoration Trust participate in National NeighborWoods Month helps us show the cumulative effect of a burgeoning urban and community forestry movement," said ACT Executive Director Alice Ewen Walker. Founded in 1993, the Alliance for Community Trees is a national coalition of 97 nonprofit organizations engaged in urban and community forestry. Its members are dedicated to grassroots community greening, public education, policymaking, job training, environmental design and other activities that support better urban forest stewardship.

Strategically planted trees contribute to energy conservation, improved children's health, increase property values, lower crime rates, save municipalities money through savings in stormwater management infrastructure, and encourage shoppers to linger longer. For example, children in neighborhoods with fewer trees have five times less lung function and higher school absences. Shaded streets require about 60% less sealant roadwork than unshaded streets. It is estimated that for every $1 a city invests in trees, it receives up to $3.74 in benefits.

NeighborWoods Month is sponsored through a generous grant from The Home Depot Foundation. "National NeighborWoods Month offers a unique opportunity for people to understand the contributions of trees to the health, beauty and livability of their communities," said Kelly Caffarelli, executive director of The Home Depot Foundation. "By partnering with ACT and local NeighborWoods organizations like Mountains Restoration Trust, The Foundation is able to further its goals of investing in the overall health and success of our communities."
