Sacramento to Celebrate National NeighborWoods Month

Sponsored by The Home Depot Foundation

Sacramento, Calif. – October 1, 2006. The Sacramento Tree Foundation today announced that it will plant/maintain 20 trees as part of their Parkway Estates Neighborhood Planting Day. This event is one of more than 100 regreening efforts throughout the country being promoted during October, which has been declared National NeighborWoods Month by the national nonprofit, the Alliance for Community Trees (ACT). The Sacramento Tree Foundation is a member of ACT's NeighborWoods Network.

This project is part of a larger effort to empower neighborhoods to develop and implement plans to care for trees in neighborhoods challenged by an aging urban forest. Of particular concern are the Modesto Ash trees, which make up 24% of Sacramento's street trees. As they increasingly succumb to disease and poor pruning, Parkway Estates' less than 10% canopy will be one of the hardest hit neighborhoods.

"It's great to be working on an important regreening effort at a time when other organizations are doing so as well," said Ray Tretheway. "Part of our goal is to draw attention to the good work being done at the grassroots level all across the country to improve urban and community forests." The Sacramento Tree Foundation enlists the greater Sacramento community in the planting and care of over 24,000 urban trees annually.

Sacramento Tree Foundation's celebration will take place as follows:
Oct 14, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.
Call for location. Afterwards, everyone is invited to stay for the BBQ!

"Having local organizations like Sacramento Tree Foundation participate in National NeighborWoods Month helps us show the cumulative effect of a burgeoning urban and community forestry movement," said ACT Executive Director Alice Ewen Walker. Founded in 1993, the Alliance for Community Trees is a national coalition of 97 nonprofit organizations engaged in urban and community forestry. Its members are dedicated to grassroots community greening, public education, policymaking, job training, environmental design and other activities that support better urban forest stewardship.

Strategically planted trees contribute to energy conservation, improved children's health, increase property values, lower crime rates, save municipalities money through savings in stormwater management infrastructure, and encourage shoppers to linger longer. For example, children in neighborhoods with fewer trees have five times less lung function and higher school absences. Shaded streets require about 60% less sealant roadwork than unshaded streets. It is estimated that for every $1 a city invests in trees, it receives up to $3.74 in benefits.

NeighborWoods Month is sponsored through a generous grant from The Home Depot Foundation. "National NeighborWoods Month offers a unique opportunity for people to understand the contributions of trees to the health, beauty and livability of their communities," said Kelly Caffarelli, executive director of The Home Depot Foundation. "By partnering with ACT and local NeighborWoods organizations like Sacramento Tree Foundation, The Foundation is able to further its goals of investing in the overall health and success of our communities."
